In October 2012 Hurricane Sandy ravaged the Jersey Shore. My family was displaced to Philadelphia for ten days. While we were there, I organized a walking trip around Philadelphia to famous landmarks such as Independence Hall, The Liberty Bell and, The US Mint. Inside The US Mint was a large observation deck overlooking the production floor. There were many displays detailing the processes of how coins were made. Once the tour was finished we went to the gift shop where I bought my first coin book and some coins to put in it. After I was able to return home, I began visiting local banks and buying rolls of quarters to sort through. After sorting through countless rolls of quarters I found a coin that was much different than any I have seen before. It had a silver edge was very worn and was older than any quarter I had seen before. It was a 1934 Washington Silver quarter, my first silver coin. After this, my love for silver coins began to flourish. In addition to quarters, I searched through rolls nickels, dimes and, half dollars in search of silver. In October 2014 my father noticed a sign for a coin show and took me. This was my first coin show ever. At the coin show, I signed up for my first coin club, The Ocean County Coin Club.

When I first attended the Summer Seminar my goal was simply to learn more about coins. Now that I have attended previously, I now have new goals. I would like to continue my numismatic education, and make more friends that share my same love of coins and numismatics. Also I would like to make connections with people who could help me in the future with things like internships and recommendations for college, jobs and, future ANA functions.

Three characteristics of a good leader are;

Confidence- Having faith in their plans and ideas

Encouragement- Helping others pursue their idea and goals

Dependability- Can be counted on in any situation

A numismatic talk that I recently had was where or not we should keep the penny? This took place on December 2, 2014 in my Introduction to Economics class while we were discussing money and the role of the Federal Reserve. I received an A+ on the assignment.

A numismatic article I have written recently was on The US Mint and how it affects the economy. This took place on September 22, 2014 in my Introduction to Economics while we were discussing the role of Federal agencies in the economy. I received an A+. I have included this paper in my packet.

A numismatic project I recently completed was a poster, depicting a periodic table of US Coins. This was handed in on December 23, 2015 and was for my Chemistry class. Insert grade here. I have included a photo of the poster and a copy of the report that was to be included with the assignment.

Some collections I am currently working on or have completed are, Indian Head Cents, MS 1909-2009 including proof only issues Lincoln Cents, Liberty Nickels, Buffalo Nickels, Jefferson Nickels 1938-2004 (Completed), Winged Liberty Dimes, 1946-1964 Roosevelt Dimes (Completed), 1932-1964 Washington

Quarters, 50 States Quarters (Completed), America the Beautiful Quarters, Walking Liberty Half Dollars, Peace Dollar set, US Coins type set.

Section 10

To be done at a later date.

Section 11

1. What I learned at the 2015 Summer Seminar was how to grade coins. I have applied this so that I am able to make better business decisions or what to pay for coins that are not slabbed and to understand more about the grading system.
2. I hope to gain a further understating of numismatics and to meet new people who share the same love on numismatics that I do.
3. Some of my numismatic goals for the future are, complete all the collections I am currently working on, collect $100 face value in "junk" silver coin, start a collection of 5 oz ATB quarters and, open my open website to sell numismatic items.
